LILIUOKALANI'S CHILDHOOD HOME TO GO UNDER THE HAMMER TODAY

THE iconoclastic hammer of the auctioneer will knock down this morning one of the landmarks of Honolulu. The Arlington Hotel, its furnishings and all the fittings of the entire establishment will be sold to the highest bidder.

Before the echoes of the auctioneer's mallet have died away the wreckers will have begun the work of tearing to pieces the building and dismantling the beautiful grounds so long the home of charming hospitality and in which so many comers to Hawaiian shores have looked their first on the foliage and exquisite growths of the Islands.

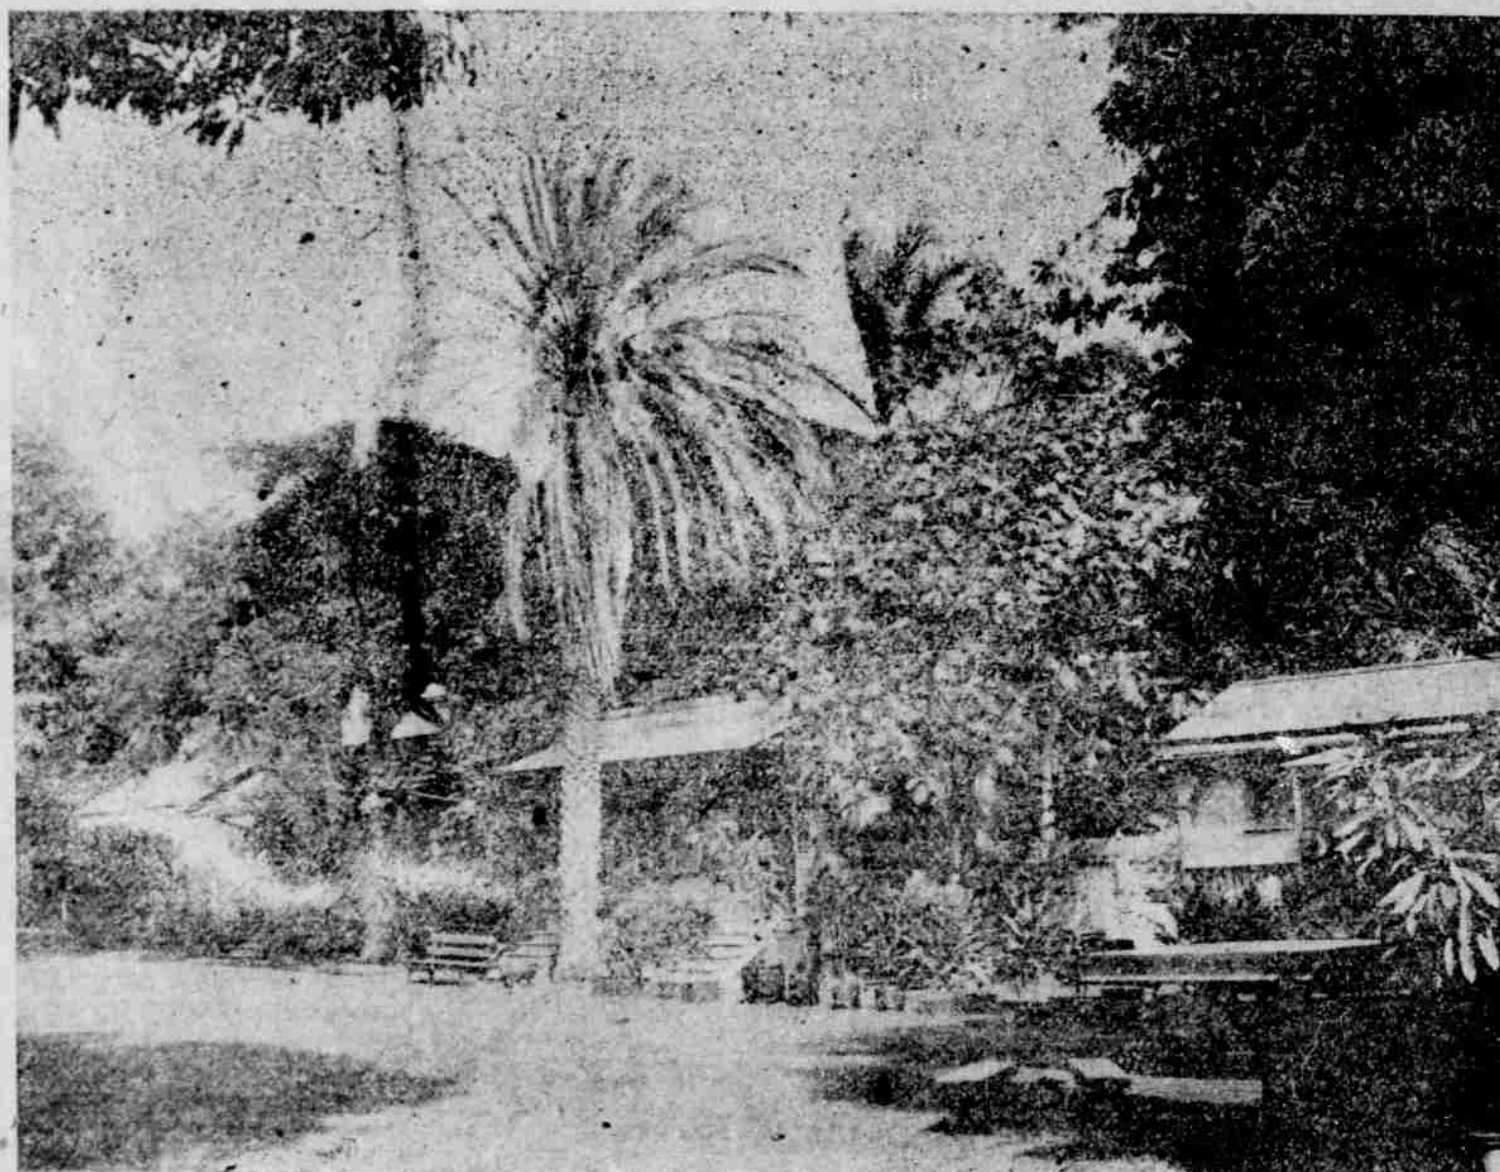

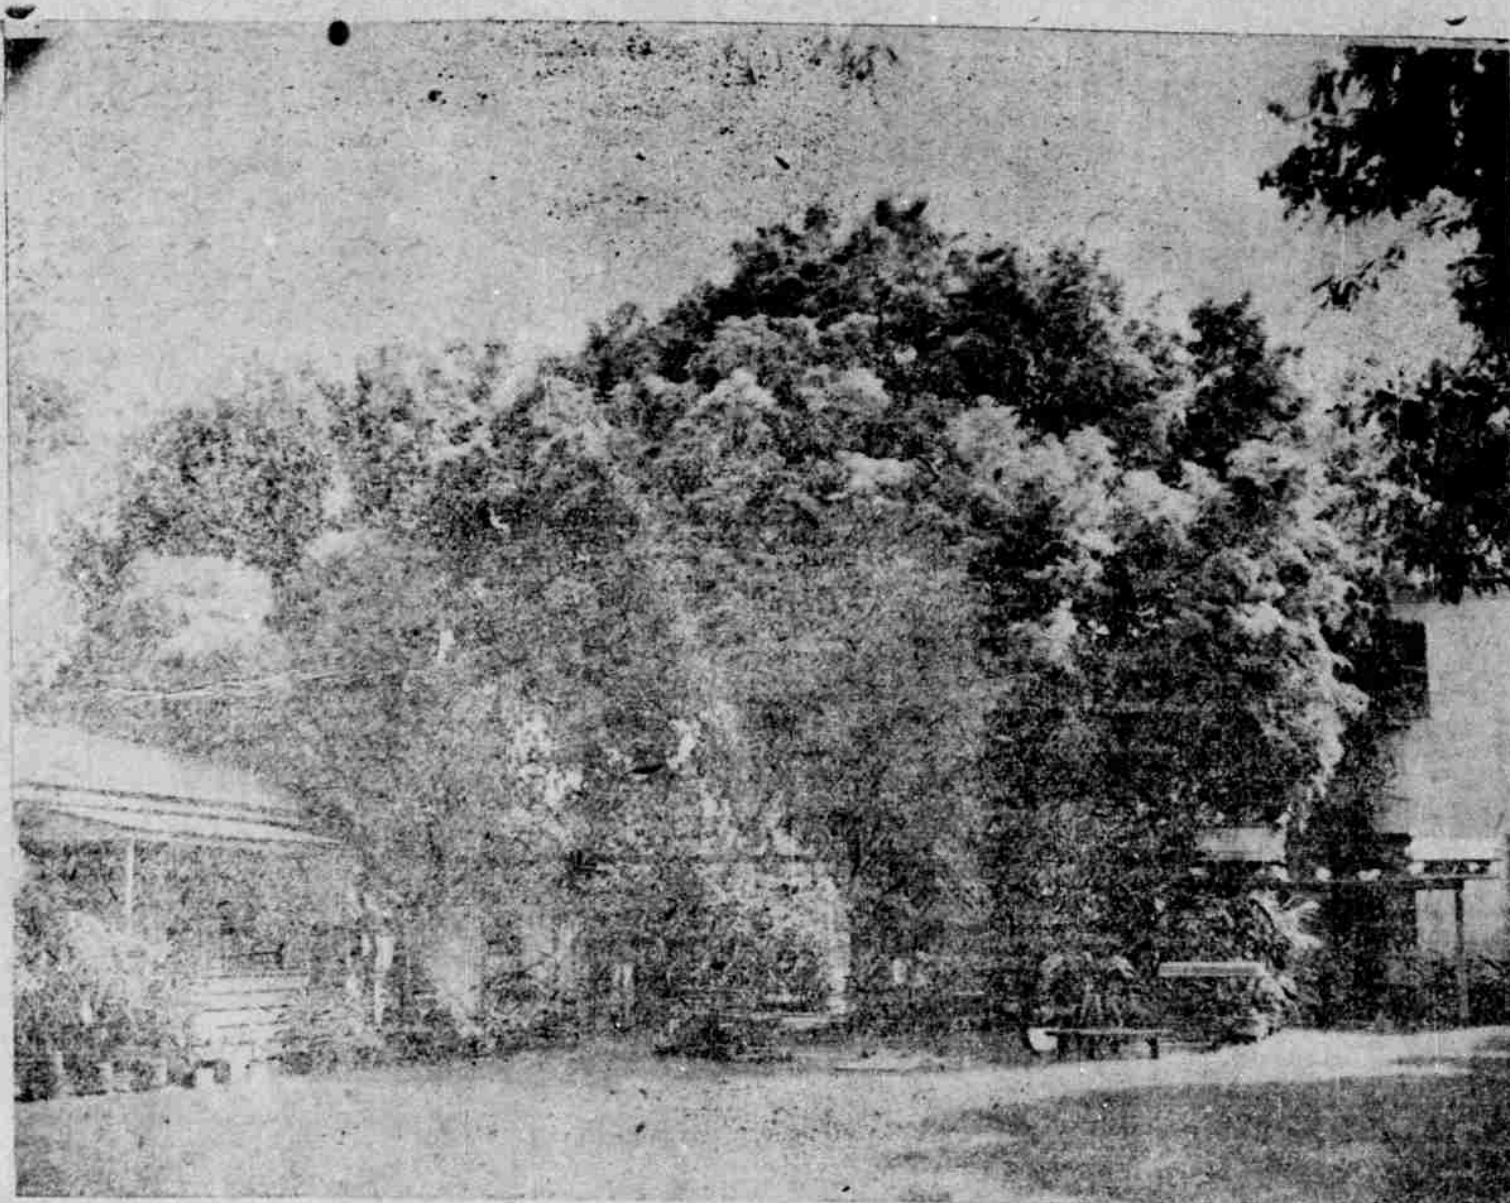

In the weatherbeaten old house a future queen spent her childhood; from it she went out the wife of a Governor to begin a life of rare activities.

The lanais and halls of the mansion have heard a thousand times the whisperings of love, the froufrou of laces worn by the fairest of Island women and the music of the dance when the gayest of society whiled away the evenings in a round of pleasures.

The winding paths and tangled garden walks could tell fetching tales of youth's heyday.

But the Arlington has known other and sterner scenes. Once it held the soldiers of a nation upholding the hands of a new-born government; again when the black death had blighted the land and Azrael overshadowed the city by night and by day a feather of the dread angel's wing fell amid the beauties of the place.

The Arlington Hotel has a most unique and interesting history. It is one of the most historic spots in all Honolulu, embracing as it does the scenes of joyousness under royalty, through the stirring days of '93, when the Boston's troops were encamped, the pettinesses of a boarding house and down to the present day as the Arlington Hotel.

It is to-day, as it was fifty years ago, a most lovely and cool place of residence. From the fact of its more than ordinary interest to the old residents of Honolulu, many of whom express sorrow that the march of time has caused the scythe to fall and, as they look back to the years they have passed and re-passed this famous place, it makes them feel very aged indeed.

To the old, the oncoming years advance so swiftly, they hardly reckon time until some sudden event brings in its path a sense of loss, such as this auction at the Arlington, for instance.

But the exigencies of business demand that these beautiful gardens must go and their place be filled by the handsome modern block of buildings to be erected by Alexander Young. Many malthinins coming straight from the colder regions of the states, retain lively emotions of their first stay at the Arlington. The mocking birds, whistling magpies, cockatoos, canaries, chickens, monkeys, doves, squirrels and other animals; the beds of ferns, the sweet-smelling flowers, all combined to make the scene one of charming confusion and delight. It was as if one had been transplanted into some Arabian Nights story, or like Little Alice, when she gets her first insight into Wonderland.

It was in truth a sort of wonderland to many a grown-up child, whose home was among the pine-clad hills and crested snow-bound mountains or the great rough cities of the mainland.

Soon all these will be in truth only a memory! Perhaps very few have given a passing thought to the poor animals so shortly to be separated. It is well known that both birds and animals feel acutely a change of quarters. These poor creatures who have dwelt together for many years will part to meet no more.

Only last week Liliuokalani spoke most feelingly and touchingly regarding the passing away of her childhood's home. How close to her heart was this estate with the beautiful name, many be inferred by this brief extract from her book, "Hawaii's Story." "The estate which had been so dear to us both (meaning Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop) in my childhood, the house built by my father, Paki, where I had lived as a girl, which was connected with many happy memories of my married life, from whence I had been married to Governor Dominis, when he took me to Washington place, I could not help feeling ought to have been left to me. The estate was called Haleakala, or House of the Sun, and the residence received the name of Aikupika; but both are forgotten now in that of the Arlington Hotel. This wish of my heart was not gratified, and at the present day strangers stroll through the grounds or lounge on the piazzas of that home once so dear to me. Yet memories of my adopted parents still cling to that I-mestead, and rise before me not only when I pass its wall, but as I recall in a foreign land the days of my youth."

Liliuokalani will pass a lonely quarter of an hour as the time approaches for the sale of what she holds so dear! "The residence has had a varied history. It was built in the forties," said Mr. Joseph Carter, "by Abner Paki, whose daughter was Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop. The Queen was only an adopted daughter, and I am somewhat under the impression that the Queen did not go directly from there to Washington Place upon the occasion of her marriage."

Said Dr. Sereno Bishop: "I can remember the place since my early childhood. I am not able to give the exact date of the building of Aikupika. But it undoubtedly must have been during the forties. It was built by Paki, a high chief. Most of the high chiefs were tall, but Paki was the tallest of all and a marked man. The place was maintained as a chief's residence for many years. It can only have been turned to other uses during the past fifteen years, at the outside. Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop left the estate to her husband, who turned the property over to the Kamehameha estates."

And thus vanishes another landmark.

WREATH FOR THE GRAVE OF A MURDERED MAN

FROM Pomona, California, yesterday came a laurel wreath to be placed on the grave of John W. Lorbeer, the Oahu Railway & Land Company's yardmaster who was murdered by Samuel Barney a few weeks ago. It was sent by the mother and father, the brothers and sisters of Lorbeer to Mrs. James Taylor, an intimate friend of the family and the dead man. There was also a request that the remains be taken from the Odd Fellows' vault wherein they have reposed since the day of the funeral and interred in a separate plot in Nuuanu cemetery. The wreath will be kept until the last sad rites over the grave are performed.

Following is the letter accompanying the wreath and the thanks of the family:

"Will you kindly place this wreath, our love token, on our boy's grave? We send the laurel wreath on account of its deep significance to us—the name of Lorbeer being the German form of the word laurel—and we also think it will keep green and fresh for sometime."

"To the many friends in Honolulu who have shown their love and respect by their kind words and loving remembrances to us and our dear son and brother who was so cruelly assassinated, we wish to extend a gratitude which words cannot express."

A HONOLULU MAN

Talks of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

When an incident like the following occurs here at home it is bound to carry weight with our readers. The public statement of a reputable citizen living in this city leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mr. James C. Stevens, of this city, informs us: "I was troubled with an ache in the small of my back for a long time, and such was the condition of things until I tried some of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, which I obtained at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. A short treatment gave me the desired relief, and I am satisfied that they are a good remedy for backache and deserve to be recommended."

Mr. Stevens is one of our own citizens. Is not such testimony stronger than that of someone living in America?

Does your back or side ache so that it is hard to stand straight? Do you have headaches, nervousness, frequent thirst, hot, dry skin, or shortness of sleep? Are your eyelids distended or breath? Evil forebodings, or unsettled sleep? Are your eyelids distended or feet and ankles swollen and have you lost flesh? Are the secretions from the kidneys thick, dark colored, and do they deposit a sediment? Kidney disease is insidious and if you leave any of these symptoms you should treat them at once. Delay may mean you can't be cured.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all chemists and store keepers at 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.
